ON A FIVE-NATION VISIT FROM JULY 2-9

PM to attend next week's BRICS summit in Brazil

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA
New Delhi, June 27

PRIME MINISTER NARENDRA Modi will embark on a five-nation tour beginning July 2 to participate in the BRICS Summit in Brazil (July 5-8) and expand India's ties with several key nations of the Global South.

Besides Brazil, Modi will visit Ghana, Trinidad and Tobago, Argentina, Brazil, and Namibia during the eight-day trip, according to the ministry of external affairs (MEA).

In the first leg of the visit, Modi will undertake a visit to Ghana from July 2-3.

In the final leg of his visit, the PM will be on a state visit to Namibia on July 9.

This will be the prime minister's first ever bilateral visit to Ghana. It will be the first prime ministerial visit from India to Ghana in three decades.

During the visit, Modi will hold talks with the president of Ghana to review the strong bilateral partnership and discuss further avenues to enhance it through economic, energy, and defence collaboration, the MEA said.

From Ghana, Modi will travel to Trinidad and Tobago on a two-day visit from July 3 to 4.

It will be the first visit by an Indian prime minister to the country since 1999.

During the visit, Modi will hold talks with President of Trinidad and Tobago Christine Carla Kangaloo and Prime Minister Kamla Persad-Bissessar. He is also expected to address a joint session of the parliament of the island nation.

The visit of the prime minister to Trinidad and Tobago will impart fresh impetus to the deep-rooted and historical ties between the two countries, the MEA said. In the third leg of his visit, Modi will visit Argentina from July 4 to 5.

The prime minister will hold wide-ranging talks with President Javier Milei to further enhance India-Argentina partnership in key areas including defence, agriculture, mining, oil and gas, renewable energy, trade and investment, according to the MEA.

"The bilateral visit of the prime minister will further deepen the multifaceted strategic partnership between India and Argentina," it said in a statement.

Club players during a tea break in Yorkshire, England

Out of field, a battle brews between Yorkshire clubs

SANDEEP DWIVEDI
Birmingham, June 27

A TEA BREAK for a club cricket game in the sub-continent is typically a quick round of cutting chai. In Yorkshire, England's deeply traditional county with 800 clubs and over 125,000 recreational players, tea can't be light, nor can it be taken lightly.

Around here, clubs have designated 'tea ladies', the honour bestowed on the wife, daughter or sister of a home player who plays host as sandwiches, cakes, scones, and, of course, tea is served.

But with that spread, a club can't expect to win the fiercely contested 'Cricket Yorkshire Tea of the Year' competition that's sponsored by, who else, Yorkshire Tea. In its fourth year, the contest has been announced and along with the smell of freshly cut grass from the cricket field, there's the ovens sending out the tempting whiff of cakes getting baked.

The first winner of this 'Battle of Teas' was a North Yorkshire club, Ripon. "They had an almost formal sit-down tea. There were two tables, white tablecloth, proper cooked gammon (smoked or cured ham). It was a sort of a proper English lunch experience you might have," says John Fuller, who initiated this cricketing bake-off to keep alive the sumptuous cricketing tradition. Fuller runs the website Yorkshire Cricket, a virtual Wisden for all small clubs.

Though the contest rules specify a budget limit to clubs and insist on the spread being "home-made", the variety is heady. Fuller's write-up on last year's contest is mouth-wateringly detailed. In dressing rooms across Yorkshire the tea-time offering had tomato and mozzarella salad, coleslaw, pulled pork and apple sauce, honey and sesame sticky sausages, sweet chilli chicken enchiladas, home-made pizza, quiche, scones, pork pies and piles of glistening salad with crisp radishes. That's beyond the cakes, brownies and breads. In years to come, the contest is expected to get spicier with a few Indian clubs. Interlink mainly has cricketers with roots in India and a local restaurant called Azim, too, has a cricket team.

"At Interlink, they have a kind of 'family day' each year, where family members of each player come with a dish from their part of India. It makes for a really varied cricket team with lots of curries and samosa chaat," says Fuller.

The wheels of the competition get rolling with Fuller calling for entries on his Cricket Yorkshire website. Those willing to participate put pictures of their tea spread. Word of mouth appreciation, along with some field trips during tea time, decide the winner. The final call on the winner is made by Fuller and the Yorkshire representative, Abigail Sawyer.

What about the prizes? It's mostly about 1,500 tea bags for the winner and a special treat for the chef volunteers. "We give a yearly quota of Yorkshire tea and we also pay the ladies or gentlemen who prepare the tea. We also send them to a really posh tea house. They get champagne and afternoon tea, so for once they don't have to make it and get to enjoy it," says Sawyer, who didn't play the game but was a regular at games for tea.

Cricket, in English towns and villages, remains a family activity. Following the fortunes of the local club would be sons, daughters and mothers. The reason cricket -- even Tests in England draw crowds -- is alive and kicking is the community support for the sport in every small village.

'Over 70% of startups integrating AI into core biz'

FE BUREAU
New Delhi, June 27

OVER 70% OF India's high-growth startups have now started integrating artificial intelligence (AI) across core business functions, underscoring the technology's rise as the ecosystem's dominant growth lever, according to a new report by Meta in collaboration with Alvarez & Marsal India.

The study, based on interviews with 100 rapidly scaling ventures, finds that AI adopters are reporting a roughly 30% improvement in cost-per-acquisition (CPA) metrics, driven by automation, predictive analytics, and hyper-personalised customer engagement.

"Sectors such as healthcare, edtech, and beauty are leading in AI maturity, leveraging automation for customer service, predictive analytics, and personalisation," the report states. Omnichannel presence is the second most widely adopted strategy, with 67% of surveyed firms integrating online touchpoints such as digital ads, creator-led reels and WhatsApp messages with physical retail.

Founders in high-involvement categories such as fashion, home and fitness emphasise the role of attributing digital spend to footfall conversions to optimise return on marketing investment. Expansion into Tier 2 and Tier 3 cities has emerged as the new battleground for scale, with nearly all startups pushing into non-metro markets to tap into latent demand.

Service-led businesses, in particular, are entering these regions almost a year ahead of their product-focused peers, leveraging vernacular content and regional influencers to accelerate user acquisition.

Category diversification (84%) and creator-driven branding (88%) complete the six growth pillars identified.

AAP divided Delhi into two: CM

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
New Delhi, June 27

ACCUSING THE PREVIOUS AAP government of dividing Delhi into "two verticals" by ignoring tax-payers, Chief Minister Rekha Gupta said Thursday that people are now "running towards Gurgaon, Faridabad, Noida" in the National Capital Region (NCR) instead of setting up businesses in the city.

Speaking at the Express Adda Thursday, Gupta also said the BJP's poll promise of distributing ₹ 2,500 each per month to women from economically weaker sections would be implemented soon, saying her government did not want to "rush into things". Asked about the ongoing demolition drives in slum clusters, Gupta said it was time people started "calling out what is wrong", such as encroachment.

Delhi Chief Minister Rekha Gupta at the Express Adda in New Delhi on Thursday.

RENUKA PURI

"The previous government and the party divided Delhi into two verticals -- one includes those who pay taxes, which help run the city. They never paid attention to them... from traders to industry, there is nothing in Delhi. There are no jobs, no work... They are all running towards Gurgaon, Faridabad, Noida," the chief minister said.

"Then there are those people who they lured by giving 200 units of electricity free to get votes. They used this formula in a way that left people to their own devices and there was no accountability... But gradually, people understood that this will not help the city grow... we need industry and infrastructure," she said. On the ongoing demolition drives, Gupta said wrong practices should be flagged.

"In this city, people have stopped calling out what is wrong," she added.
